

Dear Parents,

Happy Friday! Phew! This week was incredibly different, but good! The students did an amazing job at the Christmas concert on Tuesday evening. I am so proud of each and every one of them. Guess what? Next week we are back to normal and that means parents, we need your help please. The following is the schedule for next week.

It is the time of the year again that I will be doing a lot of assessments, because it is almost the end of first semester! We were busy this week reviewing classroom rules, and remembering that we should always do our best!

We are now back to our normal routine! Take home reading bags are in your child's folder today. Please try to read for 15 minutes each evening along with reviewing your child's memory verse, sight words, and passport states. Book-It for the month of January is in your child's folder today as well. Passport testing for this month is scheduled for January 29.

The new Scholastic book orders have been put into your child's folder. These are due on or before next Friday. If you would like to order them as gifts, please let me know and I will sneak them to you at some point.

The school auction is just around the corner on March 24! Our classroom theme for the silent auction basket is Family Game Night. I know that we could put together a wonderful basket with your help! Please pick up a game that your family enjoys playing together to donate and bring it into the classroom. Thank you for helping to make our auction successful!

Have a marvelous weekend!
