From the Fourth Grade Frogs January 12, 2018

Dear Families, Here are a few things that are coming up ☺.

Washington Studies: We thought of a good place to visit in Washington during our science lesson today. We were talking about how Washington generates a lot of electricity by hydroelectric power. We saw a video that shows how our dams generates the power. I mentioned that there are about 69 hydroelectric dams in the state. Many have tours and info on site. This would be a great “special place” in Washington that the students may have never visited. Remember the kids will be writing a brief article about where they visited, so make sure they make a note of the 5Ws and H (Who, What, When, Why, Where and How) for the place. Please take some pictures and print one or two for their articles. They will need to visit the place by May first. We will write the articles in class.
